SECTION B – PROGRAM INFORMATION

Groups may register to undertake their study toward the Certificate in Stewardship together in a local setting (in person or online). Each group must designate its own facilitator, who should complete and submit this form.

It is up to the facilitator to organize the group learning process, including times, dates, and format (in person or online). For example, you could meet over a period of 7 weeks on Tuesday evenings, or do the whole program together as a weekend retreat. AST recommends that participants view the videos together in real time during your group sessions. Discussion questions are provided in the Workbook. You will need a high-speed internet connection for your computer to access the materials for this program.

After the group's registration is complete and you have paid your fees, you will receive a Workbook in PDF format, which includes all the materials and internet links you will need. Your group license permits you to circulate the Workbook to members of your group if they pre-register with the facilitator, but for copyright reasons, it is prohibited to share the Workbook further. Separately, the facilitator will be sent a password or passwords to access the online teaching videos.

All participants in your group who complete the program will receive the Certificate in Stewardship from AST upon certification by the local group facilitator.
